

ALBERTSON BASEBALL VS. LEWIS-CLARK STATE

THE EVENT: A potential preview of the 2003 NAIA Baseball World Series Championship. Two of the nation's most dominant small-college baseball teams, both from Idaho, collide Saturday, April 26, and Sunday, April 27, at Memorial Stadium in Boise.

THE COMPETITORS:

Albertson College: 1998 NAIA National Baseball Champion and third-place finishers in the 2002 NAIA World Series. National Tournament participants four of the past five years.

Lewis-Clark State College: Defending NAIA World Series Champion and winners of 12 NAIA National Titles since 1984.

THE CAUSE: In a year of severe budget cuts at Albertson College, all proceeds from this event will benefit the Coyote athletic department. Funds raised will help maintain the level of excellence of all Coyote athletic teams.

THE PARTNERS: The Coyotes have teamed with the Caldwell Youth Baseball Association and RiverStone Community School for Sunday's game and the Meridian Youth Baseball/Softball Association and Cole Valley Christian School for Saturday's contest. Half of each ticket sold by these organizations will be retained to help strengthen and improve youth baseball in our communities.

WHAT TO EXPECT: Exciting, Exhilarating, Stimulating, Invigorating, Fundamentally-Sound, Intensely-Competitive Baseball. You'll walk away with a sense of community pride for supporting both youth baseball in your community and one of the top small college athletic programs in the country.
