

The College of Idaho generally abides by the rules of the Intercollegiate Bureau of Academic Costume; however, members of recognized campus organizations may wear an adornment signifying their membership in that organization.

Stipulations:

- Students may wear one (1) adornment and/or one (1) stole, but not more than one of each.
- Two stoles may not be worn with or without the additional adornment.
- For an organization's stole to qualify, the student organization must be in good standing with the College
- Adornments specific to a culture, such as leis, must be in a traditional format
- Final approval to be determined by the College appointed Commencement Officers (Registrar and Events Director) with assistance from the Multicultural and International Affairs department.

Other regalia adornment must be limited to the cap.

Stipulations:

- Design must lie flat
- Adornment may only be on the top surface of the cap
- Adornment may not hang over edges of cap
- Design must not include any graphics or language that may be considered offensive
- Commencement Officers reserve the right to remove any design deemed inappropriate
