

"In choir, there's always a moment when you realize that you're part of something amazing. It dawns on you like someone hit a light switch. I can say confidently that these musical groups have given me the best years of my life so far."

—Danielle Danker ('12)

Pursue Degrees in:

- Vocal Performance
- Music Education
- String Performance
- Music Composition
- General Music

Enjoy a Variety of Performing Opportunities:

- Chorale
- Chamber Singers
- Vocal Jazz
- Operas and Musicals
- String Sinfonia & Chamber Music
- Band
- Early Music
- Group Tours

The Music Department at the C of I seeks to transform students into well educated scholar-performers, who think critically and creatively, and are prepared for diverse careers. By combining music studies with the College's distinctive PEAK liberal arts curriculum, we provide a dynamic, student-centric education.

To arrange an audition, a chat with a professor, or get more information:

Office of Admission

(208) 459-5305

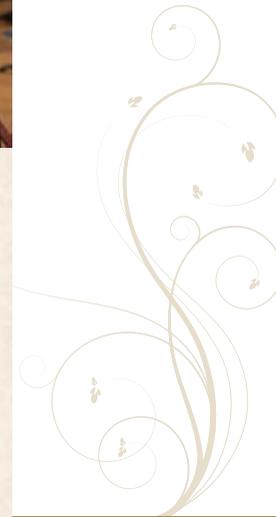

admission@collegeofidaho.edu

Department of Music

(208) 459-5275

earl@collegeofidaho.edu

collegeofidaho.edu/music

STUDIES IN MUSIC

THE COLLEGE of IDAHO

A Select Institution with Exceptional Faculty:

- The C of I ranks among the top 10 schools for the Rocky Mountain & Northwest regions of the country. (Forbes, 2011)
- Study with professors who have performed professionally in Europe and the USA, published numerous scholarly articles and books, and led international study abroad opportunities.
- 97% of C of I students enrolled full-time for all four years graduate in four years.

"The C of I music program has been the best thing to happen to me....Its quality shines through in performances and opportunities offered."

—Jen Dixon ('14)

Personal Attention:

- Each student is assigned a faculty mentor.
- 88% of our classes have 30 or fewer students.
- Overall student to faculty ratio is 12:1.

"The music program provides opportunities for students to excel thanks to extremely talented and passionate teachers."

—Monika Craciunescu ('13)

Self Discovery—Choose Your Own Path:

- Students graduate with 1 major and 3 minors in 4 diverse areas thanks to our unique PEAK curriculum.
- PEAK provides flexibility and personal choice when selecting coursework to fulfill areas of study.
- Students have multiple opportunities for performance and academic pursuits.

"The PEAK curriculum has such a vast selection of programs that it's impossible for a student to not find something that interests them."

—Clayton Gefre ('15)

Scholarships:

Whether you choose to major or minor in music, or perform in an ensemble on an elective basis, scholarships are available. Performance scholarships can be as much as $48,000 over the course of four years, and this amount can be combined with academic, sports, and need-based scholarships.

"I have developed relationships with my professors already in my first semester that I don't think I could have developed at a public school. I love the feeling of unity that this school has between professor and student."

—Korey Gambill ('15)

An Affordable Private College:

- 99% of first-year students at C of I receive financial assistance.
- Students can earn substantial scholarships based on financial need, academic merit, athletic achievement, and musical performance.
- While you might pay less per year to attend a public institution, you are likely to take more than four years to graduate. On average, C of I graduates have nearly identical student loan debt to students graduating from Idaho's public colleges & universities. (US News and World Report Information)

Perform, Conduct, & Compose Now:

Many colleges provide little true opportunity for undergraduate students to assume lead roles in operas and musicals, have legitimate podium time as a music education student, or compose and perform original works in a visible way. At The College of Idaho, it is expected that students will enjoy meaningful performing, teaching, and composing experiences early and often during their collegiate career.