LINDO ZONDO '21

"I chose The College of Idaho because the College made a very generous financial aid offer, one that I am very grateful for and don't take for granted. The College was very engaged with their communications with me, conveying a sense of community and family. I was also intrigued by the Peak curriculum and the idea of exploration that it offers."

"I believe in giving respect in order to earn it. The College of Idaho community is one that truly upholds the value of respect, through the little things that we do for each other, including greeting each other as we walk to class and holding the doors open for each other. We truly uphold a sense of family and community. This is made evident with the relationships that we have with our professors and the willingness of our Presidents to converse with students from all walks of life and genuinely inquire about the lives of those students. All these factors have made The College of Idaho a "home away from home" for me. None of these experiences would have become reality for me were it not for the generous financial aid that I was blessed to receive."

"Lindo is a scholar—a great writer and thinker. He is a performer—a musician who plays the piano like a master (and with no formal training!), and acts in theater productions and in Cabaret. He is a student-athlete—a team player. Lindo embodies and represents the best of who we are."
